

Jean Claude Knebel: International cooperation's role in global environmental governance

Author: Jean Claude Knebel

Abstract:

In the opening ceremony, Jean Claude Knebel addressed the importance of drylands areas. He proposed that international cooperation is the key to get more people involved in global environmental governance, which will also help with proposing biodiversity conservation and climate issue of drylands into the Post 2020 Global Biodiversity Framework.

Key words: drylands area, biodiversity, climate change, Post 2020 Global Biodiversity Framework, international cooperation, global environmental governance
