

The impact of the release of the Comprehensive Performance Evaluation Index System for Group Standard Organizations on China's standardization work

By WANG Jing<sup>1</sup>, MA Yong<sup>1</sup>

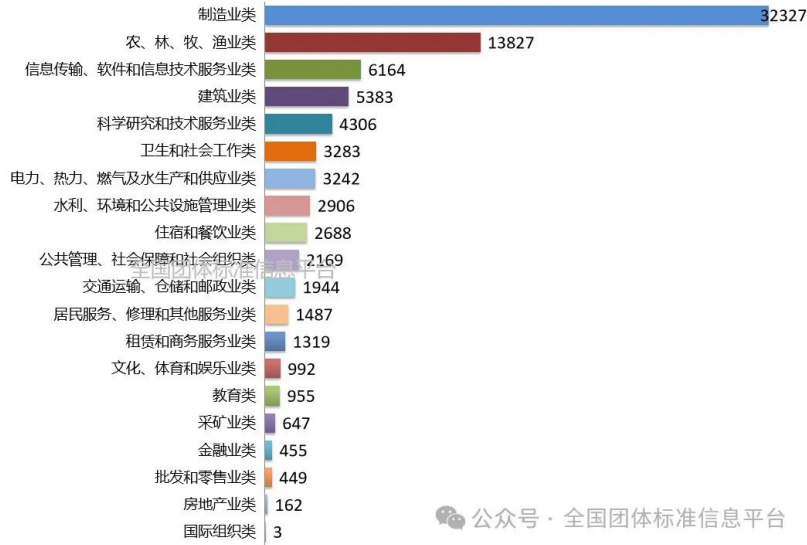

(1. China Biodiversity Conservation and Green Development Foundation)

Abstract: As the technical support for economic activities and social development, standards are the basic system for the modernization of the national governance system and capacity. The development of group standards is based on market demand, technological progress and the need for standardized management. Although the group standard construction work in China started late, it developed rapidly. At present, there are also many problems. Taking the release of the Comprehensive Performance Evaluation Index System for Group Standard Organizations as an opportunity, this article analyzes the problems in the development process of group standards. Through specific case analysis, it emphasizes the importance and positive significance of the evaluation index being clarified.

Key words: Group standards, evaluation index, social groups

WANG Jing, MA Yong. The impact of the release of the Comprehensive Performance Evaluation Index System for Group Standard Organizations on China's standardization work. BioGreen - Biodiversity Conservation and Green Development. Vol. 1, November 2024. Total Issues 70. ISSN2749-9065

As of June 30, 2024, group standards published by social groups cover all 20 national economic industry classifications from the perspective of national economic industry classification. Source:

National Group Standards Information Platform

A meteor streaks across the CBCGDF Community Conservation Dark Sky Area in Kaihua. Source:

Hangzhou Astronomical Society

